Five sustain injuries in Minden collision

Five people sustained varying degrees of injury in a car-truck collision in the heart of Minden Tuesday afternoon.

Curtis Gartshore, driver of the car involved and his passenger, Kathy Nesbitt, 17, both of Minden, were among the injured. Damage to the vehicle is estimated at about $2,300 and the occupants were treated at Minden Red Cross Outpost Hospital.

All three persons aboard the truck were also hurt and treated at the hospital. These included driver Shirley Johnston, 17, and her brother, Leonard Scott Johnston, 7, of Haliburton along with his young friend, James Frost, 7, of Canning Lake. Estimated damage $1,300.

OPP Constable Jim Solway investigated the intersection collision shortly before 5:00 p.m.

Toronto boy shot in the right forearm

On Wednesday, July 30th the Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police were notified of a person suffering from a gun shot wound.

Alvin James Kameka age 10 of Shuter Street in Toronto was admitted to the Red Cross Hospital at Haliburton, having been shot in the right forearm with a .22 calibre rifle at the Haliburton Scout Reserve.

It appears that a juvenile age 12, while on the firing range had discharged his rifle accidentally. At the time of the shooting there was no adult supervision on the firing range.

Kameka has been transferred to Sick Childrens Hospital in Toronto to have the bullet removed.

The matter is being investigated by Prov. Constable R.W. Pearson of the Minden Detachment.

Heatwave also hits Haliburton

We can sum the weather report for the past week in two words, hot and humid. Haliburton County for the past week or so was no different from other parts of Ontario where people have sweltered through days and days of unliveable weather.

Local people phoning the Echo have told us that they recorded temperatures of from 105 degrees F to would you believe 130 degrees F in the sun at Haliburton. That's mighty hot isn't it.

Visitors by the thousands poured into Haliburton County over the holiday weekend to escape the hot, hot weather conditions that prevailed in many of our major Ontario cities.

The heat wave over the weekend here in the Highlands was a record for the civic holiday weekend. Many here in the county left work early on several days during this heat wave and they tell us that beer and soft drink sales established some kind of a record.

The days were so hot that even the most avid golfer here, stayed off the golf courses and spent the day on the beach.

The weather experts predicted a long hot summer and that's just what we are having.

Money recovered by OPP

In last week's issue of the Haliburton County Echo we stated that an investigation was continuing into the theft at Camp White Pine near Haliburton. As we reported there was over $2300 missing from the safe at the Camp.

The Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police received a report on July 28th, 1975 that there had been a further break-in.

The office door had been opened through the evening and all of the previously stolen money was returned in a green garbage bag with the exception of $170.00.

The investigation was carried out by Provincial Constables W.L. Clendenning and R.V. Telford.

Boy lost near Wilberforce

Last Thursday while working on the Burleigh Road near Wilberforce one of the grader operators who is employed by the Haliburton County Roads Department noticed a boy on the side of the road. When he questioned the lad to see where he was going the boy told him that he was lost and that he was a Boy Scout staying at the Haliburton Boy Scout Reserve.

The grader operator took him to Wilberforce where he phoned the Roads Dept. to tell them that he had found the missing boy.

We are not on the map

Here is the living proof that the Highlands of Haliburton is not on the Map. It's hard to believe that the Ministry of Tourism and Industry and the Provincial Government are unaware of the fact that we do exist here in the Highlands. A local citizen was heard to remark the other day that he wasn't surprised that the government didn't know where we are seeing how very little attention is paid to us here in Haliburton County. The above map was taken out of the recently published booklet "The Traveller's Encyclopaedia of Ontario". As you can see the Highlands of Haliburton is simply a blank white space on the map of Central Ontario. A highly indignant Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden have refused to distribute the glossy, multi-colored 108 page booklet and our local County Council and Chamber of Commerce have promised immediate letters to Industry and Tourism Minister the Hon. Claude Bennett.

Haliburton Rotary Carnival on today

The big day of the year has finally arrived. Today [Wednesday, August 6th] is the day for the Annual Haliburton Rotary Carnival.

At the present time the games, the beer garden and the giant midway are in operation at the fairgrounds plus the ever popular splash tank. It's worth your trip to the fairgrounds to see the Antique Car Display featuring the first OPP Cruiser [1941 Chevrolet.]

Tonight starting at 7:00 p.m. the monster parade [known as one of the best small town parades in Ontario] will get underway and you won't want to miss it. Thousands of people are expected to be here tonight to see the parade that will feature several bands, floats and marching units.

Following the parade the action will all take place under the floodlights at the fairgrounds and it will include the giant midway, games of chance, refreshments, entertainment plus bingo in the Legion Auditorium for cash prizes.

At 10:00 pm, it will be the 50-50 draw and at 11:00 p.m. the draw will take place for the 1975 Camaro. Make sure you have your ticket on this beautiful car and remember its free admission to the midway area.

Why not prepare now to enter a float in the big parade and bring the entire family out for an afternoon and evening that will long be remembered.

Proceeds from this day will be used for the Five Counties Childrens Centre.

When is Haliburton going to get police protection?

Vandalism is still on the uprise in the village of Haliburton and it seems to be getting worse instead of better.

Just recently the Ol' Barn Tavern in Haliburton was broken into and a large amount of goods stolen and the building in general left in quite a mess. What a worry this must be to the owner not only in the dollar and cents loss but to go through the inconvenience of having to clean up the mess right in the middle of the busy summer season.

The local council in the village are also having their worries as just recently some person or persons knocked two of their parking meters down and dragged them away. Of course this isn't the first time that this has happened.

During the late hours of one night last week some comedians with very little to do ran over town spreading toilet paper on the lawns and trees of some of the property and houses of local residents.

In the early hours of Sunday morning the culprits were at it again spreading toilet paper over the lawns in the area of Ed Millers Store. One of the local businessmen even had an egg broken on the hood of his car.

Do you mean to say that all this vandalism would be going on if we had a police cruiser around and a few officers on duty.

It is just about time that this foolishness came to an end and in our opinion more local police protection is badly needed.

THE ENERGY WASTE WATCHER

This column will look at painless ways of cutting down on your fuel and electricity bills at home. Have any suggestions? Send them along to the Energy Waste Watcher at Information EMR, 588 Booth Street, Ottawa K1A 0E4.

It is possible to keep your home comfortably cool in summer without relying on air conditioning. As a matter of fact, many families do. The keys are maintaining adequate ventilation, and cutting down the amount of solar heat captured and trapped indoors.

The attic, for example, is a natural hot-spot with the sun beating down on the roof all day. By mid-afternoon the attic air could rise to a steamy 54°C, passing on heat to upstairs bedrooms.

One way of solving the problem is ventilation with an attic fan, to force the heat out and bring cooler air inside. Attic fans are generally cheaper than air conditioning, and operate on less power. They can be activated manually or by thermostat. You might check with a local building contractor or electrician about the cost and mechanics of installation. Do make sure the fan is placed high on the roof to give you its full benefit.

Draw blinds to keep out direct sun, and keep windows and doors open during the cooler part of the day to catch outside breezes. Drapes and blinds should be light-coloured and opaque to reflect the sun's rays—they'll cut solar heat by half. Awnings, louvered sun screens on windows, and the leafy shade of trees can also reduce heat by as much as 80 per cent.

If you have a forced air heating system, try turning on the circulating fan. It will move cool air from the basement throughout the house.

Insulation is an important element in keeping the heat out in summer. And if you do have air conditioning, insulation will keep the cool air in. The top floor ceiling requires ample insulation—about six inches—to reduce the heat flow from the sun-heated attic to the rooms below. If your ceiling now has 3-4 inches, it is to your advantage to increase the thickness. The combined summer-winter savings in cooling and heating costs will cover the cost of materials within a few years.

We're all "full of hot air", and give off about 400 Btu* per hour per person. Electrical appliances and lights produce additional heat indoors. Overall, the average amount of heat generated daily in a moderately sized household (excluding the occupants' body heat) might be on the order of 60,000 Btu.

"Boy, am I in hot water now," joked Lake Ontario's conqueror Cindy Nicholas as she joined her new friends in the specially heated pool at the Ontario Society for Crippled Children in Toronto. Indeed, the 17-year-old Scarborough swimmer will find quite a difference in temperature when she plunges into the sea later next month at Dover, England, in her attempt to shatter Lynne Cox's cross-Channel record of 9 hours 36 minutes.

Cindy hopes to break the record in the year of the 100th anniversary of the first Channel swim by Matthew Webb and the 20th anniversary of Marilyn Bell's famous swim.

"Given reasonable conditions, I am confident I can beat the record," declared Cindy. "But rough weather, strong tides and the cold could defeat me. Also jellyfish. The Channel is no pushover by any means."

Cindy, who is that rare combination of sprint and distance swimmer, has arranged that any money donated by well-wishers will go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

"I could do with all the encouragement Canadians can give me," admitted Cindy, "but I'd like others perhaps less fortunate than I to benefit from any gifts that people might send in and I can't think of a nicer way for people to encourage me than by helping crippled children."

Q. Does pressure cooking have any effect on nutrients in vegetables?

A. Yes, vitamins are conserved because of fast cooking, the lack of air in the cooking process and the small amount of liquid used.

The system, installed by Odyssey Communications Limited of Peterborough, finally went into service this month after local cable television owner Bob Bishop donated antenna and equipment space at his TV tower and building on the height of land overlooking Minden.

The Haliburton County Library and Lampoon Puppet Theatre will be presenting "Clowning Around" a puppet show for adults and children of all ages at Minden Community Centre on Friday August 15th at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free. The Lampoon Puppet Theatre presented this show "Clowning Around" in Haliburton and Wilberforce last summer where it was a great success. The County Library has also sponsored shows by Studio Lab Theatre and Global Village and is presenting the "Punch and Judy" Puppet show in six smaller libraries in this area. We think that you will agree that Haliburton County Library Board is doing a great job in bringing children's theatre to our County.

Work is at present underway for a giant addition to the present Stedmans store on Haliburton's main street. The new addition on the back of the present store will be constructed of cement blocks and the size will be 60 x 70 and will give an overall floor space of 8500 square feet. When completed it will be the largest business building in Haliburton County. When completed it will be three times the size of the present store. It will feature a selling area, basement and a basement level for receiving and this will get away from any tie-up of traffic. Mr. Vince Connaughan, owner of the Stedmans franchise told the Echo on Monday that he has placed a suggestion box at the front of his store and he is looking forward to people dropping their comments and suggestions [good or bad into this box.] Tee Pee Construction of Haliburton are the building contractors on this new addition. From The Living Bible While Jeremiah was still in jail, the Lord sent him this second message: The Lord, the Maker of heaven and earth — Jehovah is his name — says this: Ask me and I will tell you some remarkable secrets about what is going to happen here. For though you have torn down the houses of this city, and the king's palace too, for materials to strengthen the walls against the siege guns of the enemy, yet the Babylonians will enter, and the men of this city are already as good as dead.

Food Sense in Canada—NO NONSENSE

Nutrition Extends the Age-Limit!

In the summer days when we hear reference to age limits for son's baseball team, for daughter's summer camp, and even for Dad's golf tournament, we can take a look at the extending age limits for good health and happy living.

As Joan Fielden, Nutrition Consultant to the Bakery Foods Foundation of Canada says, if grandmother and grandfather had been living out their years "in grandmother's time", their chances of enjoying their vintage years to the full might have been different. But today, things are happening to those in the grandparent years — and science is showing them how to enjoy many extra days of "ailment free" living.

Canada's population is getting older. It's a fact — even though grandfather insists that his friends just look that way to him! Since 1900, the number of folks over 60 has increased about twice as fast as the total population. Many of these persons are in good health and apparently free from ailments and diseases usually associated with aging. In these cases, invariably their good habits have been and continue to be sound.

On the other hand, there are many in the grandparent age bracket who invite health hazards: irregular meal hours; extreme lack of variety and disinterest in foods; a willingness to practise food fads or cling to traditional food patterns. It is in this group that many of the ills related to aging are found.

To get all the essential foods into the health picture from the crib crowd on, select foods with an eye to variety and balance. It's the same story over and over again! Follow Canada's Food Guide and you'll lay the foundation for many extra years of enjoyable activity.

Make sure of a daily supply of protein foods like meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese and milk, and add plenty of fruits and vegetables, whole grain cereals, enriched white or whole grain breads, with butter or margarine.

Haliburton Highlights

We notice that some of the visitors coming into Haliburton are putting money in the parking meters every day of the week. We would like to inform these people that on Wednesdays, Sundays and Holidays no money is required in the meters.

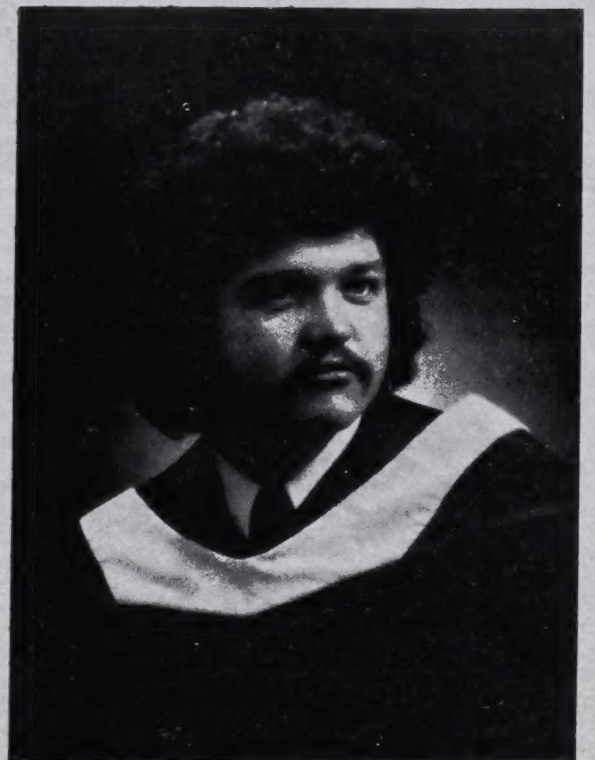

We understand that in the not too distant future the washrooms and change rooms at the Rotary Beach will be torn down and a new cement building will be erected. In order for these washrooms to function properly they will have to be hooked onto the town sewer line.

Mr and Mrs Bert Fisher of Ramsgate England are visiting at the home of Mr and Mrs Lorne Morrison at Haliburton.

Mr Lloyd Otto a member of the Lindsay Rotary Club was a visitor to the Rotary Club of Haliburton last Thursday and spoke on the subject of the Student Exchange Programme in the district. He went on to say that twenty-eight students will be coming into this district this year.

The Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association have erected a beautiful large sign at the boundary coming into Haliburton County. It's a real beauty so take a look the next time you are down that way.

From the amount of traffic pouring into Haliburton last Friday evening it makes one wonder if the 10c a gallon rise in the price of gasoline means anything to the motorist.

Editorials

We are dependent on one economic source

At the present time we are in the midst of still another busy tourist season and everyone seems to be very busy. It's a shame that it only lasts for two months out of twelve. It's like going on a big drunk, it's fine while it lasts but the hangover that follows is something else.

The Highlands of Haliburton is in great danger of becoming just a tourist area and a large service centre for transient sightseers who may be here for a day or two months at the most.

We are not against tourism, we think that it is wonderful and we will do everything in our power to make sure that the tourist industry flourishes but on the other hand we worry about the Highlands being dependent on only one economic source.

We must start to realize that we must have something else to have an all year round balanced economy. It seems very foolish to us to think that we are millionaires for two months of the year and that many people find it hard to make things meet for the other ten months.

It is our opinion that the local councils in the area plus the Chamber of Commerce should get on the ball and try to bring small industries into our communities.

There is an old saying that goes something like this. "Don't put everything into one basket." This is what we are doing at the present time and if tourism should ever falter then we are in for real big trouble.

Houses and apartments needed here

Each and every day of the week people who visit our office in a great many cases are looking to rent a house or an apartment in the village of Haliburton.

In most cases we have to tell them that there are very few available and in other words they are mighty scarce and very hard to find.

It seems to be very discouraging to find that so many people would like to move into Haliburton but are sent away because of the lack of accommodation. It's a very serious matter and one that we hope will be remedied in the not too distant future. If we are to grow we must have houses and apartments for people to live.

It is our hope and the hope of many that as soon as the sanitary sewage system is installed in Haliburton that some person or persons will see their way clear to build some much needed housing and someone to put up a large apartment building.

The need for housing construction is badly needed and it should be of main concern to our local council.

Haliburton going to the dogs

It's fine for the council of the Municipality of Dysart et al to pass By-Laws but when they do this they should be prepared to see that they are enforced.

The council have a by-law that stated that dogs are not to run at large during certain times of the year. At the present time they are to be tied up.

Signs have been erected at the Rotary Beach in Haliburton to the effect that No Dogs Are Allowed on the beach. Two big signs have now been posted at the beach area and whether certain people's eye sight is bad or they are just plain ignoring the signs it's very hard to tell.

As we have said before the signs are up and its just about time that our local By-Law Enforcement Officer made checks on this area to see if any dogs are on the loose and if so to pick them up and fine the owners a good stiff fine.

On Sunday one local resident told us that four dogs at the very same time were running around the beach area.

If some of our local by-laws were enforced in the same manner as the Parking By-Law then we could say that things are running the way they should be.

To: The Editor of the Haliburton County Echo

During the past month we have lost two pets by having them run over on the Buckhorn Road. Fully realizing the hazard of the nearby roadway, we have endeavoured to keep them off the busy road. However, as we believe in allowing our pets a certain amount of freedom, it is very difficult to watch them all the time, even with the threat of instant death. As a result we have accepted these losses as a calculated risk of ownership of these pets at our location.

Nevertheless, what becomes aggravating and completely unbelievable are the reactions of the drivers of these automobiles. Surely the driver would get some kind of vibration from hitting a 70 lb. dog and think that he might have only injured the animal. I don't believe I'm in the minority to stop and pull dead animals off to the side of the road. Even if you hate pets please have the courtesy to respect another person's view and realize that in most cases a domestic animal is just like a member of the family. To leave it and drive on, to them, is the same as hitting a child or loved one and leaving them to rot in the sun. Perhaps, if Haliburton really is for lovers, we could all try harder to respect one another's views.

The stopping and removal of any animal from a roadway shows a certain respect for death; while not removing them shows contempt and in the case of domestic pets pure ignorance. It is our hope that this message is food for thought for some people and distant echoes for others.

Yours truly
Dave and Sharon Chatfield

Dear Sir:

In reply to your Editorial entitled "Tourist business is down from last year" in the July 24th, 1975, we offer our opinion.

We have been coming up to Haliburton for the past eight years, both during the summer and winter, and we have found some very pleasant and helpful storekeepers, however, many clearly want your money but do not wish to be bothered with you as either a tourist or a cottager.

We realize people are in business to make a fair profit, however, most of the merchants in Haliburton are gouging the public and as a result we as well as most people we know, are bringing supplies and food stuffs with them. We prefer to shop in the village but cannot see paying 10c, 15c and 20c per item more just for the convenience.

We feel your claim that there are not as many American tourists in Ontario may be partly true but that is not the real reason for a slow down in business.

Also, in your paper of July 17, 1975, under the title "Postmaster decides not to fly flag" - from the wording in this article you are more or less putting the onus on tourist and/or cottagers for taking the flags in that you state it happens during the summer months.

If you were flying the Canadian flag at the proper time - sunrise to sunset - especially on a government building, you probably wouldn't have the problems you do in losing so many flags.

Our Pic of the Past this week takes us back quite a few years and it shows the late Harold Black on the left and the late Bill Curry on the right looking over the two large moose that they had shot at their hunting camp. The photo was taken just outside of Black's Pro Hardware store in Haliburton. The two men who were ardent hunters were also great friends and the picture shows that they were quite happy following the hunt.

SUMMER in the country.

Sitting here writing a column in Grandad's office, a pair of shorts, and nothing else, I would have to work very hard at it to be anything but peaceful, and I'm not about to.

Back home, my lawn is burning to a crisp, my roses are dying for lack of water, my cat, with any luck, has left for good, and some junkie has probably broken into the house and stolen the color TV. I don't care.

Out there somewhere, people are hurtling along hot asphalt in the heat, cursing the obstreperous kids in the back seat, and wishing they'd never started this stupid trip.

Elsewhere, guys and dolls all over the world are hustling and sweating and trying to impress each other, and pursuing the ever-dwindling buck with maniacal intensity of purpose.

Everywhere, politicians are cooking up new clouts for the next session, or thinking up new ways of saying: "Maybe yes, and maybe no, and maybe maybe."

Somewhere, Arabs are killing Jews, and Jews are killing Arabs, and Christians, in time-honored custom, are killing other Christians.

Somebody is winning $30,000 in the Something-Or-Other-Open with a 24 foot putt, and somebody else is losing it by missing a four foot putt.

People are earnestly taking virtually useless summer courses which will fit them for practically nothing.

Unexpected and unwelcome visitors are piling in on "old friends." The visitors unload two surly kids, one ill-mannered dog, and announce heartily: "Can't stay morena coupla days. Thought about gettin' a motel room, but knew you'd be hurt 'f we didden stay 'thyou." (Sound of old friends' eyes rolling.)

My son is in Paraguay, South America, swimming a piranha-infested river, or slouching through the jungle, kicking poisonous snakes out of the way, or lying in a native hut, wracked with malaria.

My only daughter is trapped in a box on the ninth floor of an apartment building, in the heat, with an 18-month hell-on-wheels boy clutching her sawed-off jeans, and a little sister in the oven, ready to join him just about on his second birthday and oh, dear, isn't it awful. Imagine having two babies in two years in these times.

And about all of these things, all the hurly and the burly, all the muss and the fuss, all the higgie and piggie, all of the ever-lasting human struggle to prove that God's in His heaven and all's wrong with the world, or the opposite, I don't care.

I just don't give a diddley-dam. Why not? Because, at this time and in this place, I have irrefutable proof that He is in His heaven, and there ain't nobody who could improve on the world just as it is, right now.

It's a cool-hot perfect Canadian day. Hot sun, cool breeze. Whatever your thermometer says, it's about 83 Fahrenheit here.

I raise my head from the typewriter, and roses lean toward me, a big, matronly maple ruffles her bustles in the breeze, like a lady caught in a body-rub parlor.

On the top rail of the fence, 10 feet away, two retarded robins are singing, and making, overtures. A denuded lilac bush is whispering: "Yes, but wait 'til next year."

Along the back fence, the hollyhocks stand, not row on row, but in little groups, muttering together, tossing their heads in the breeze, and looking down their long, cool shoulders at the upstart blue delphiniums, which bear a gleam of miscegenation in their eyes.

Just beyond them is a field of uncut, late, late hay, bowing and tossing and rippling like a blonde teenager who has just discovered she just might be a beautiful woman.

Raise the eyes but one more degree, and there, framed in green foliage, is the deep-blue beauty of the two-mile-wide bay, with the high, rolling shoreline on the other side, and the cottages so tiny that you can't see the squalling, grunting, sweaty humans in and around them.

Ah, but it's lovely. And peaceful. And lonely. Not lonesome, but the good kind of lonely, when you don't want another human being, even a loved one, to spoil the mood.

Maybe that's it. My Loved One is away down the gravel road, exchanging hysterical tales about their children with an old school friend.

Grandad, an incorrigible 83-year-old, is out belting around his 40-mile mail route.

This morning, I saw a hawk. When I was little, the chickens, who were all psyched up, would scuttle, the kids would all scream with delight: "A hawk! A hawk!" and the farmer would run in for his shotgun.

Nobody even noticed this guy. He looked like a skinny, ancient kite, peering down for the dead body of a Roman legionnaire, perhaps. No chickens. No legionnaires (I haven't paid my dues). It was kind of sad.

Down in the Bay, there is a big rainbow trout just waiting to show me some tricks. Yesterday, I saw two partridge flush just outside Grandad's "office" window. Tomorrow I'll see three deer standing up by the fence, looking curious.

Tomorrow I'll care about the world again, and all the bad things and good things happening in it.

But right now, at this time, in this place, I don't care. God may be out to lunch, as I frequently suspect. But whoever is filling in for Him at this moment is doing one helluva job, if you'll pardon the expression.

by William C. Scott, M.P.

Excise Tax Act

The House resumed consideration of the motion of Mr. Turner (Ottawa-Carleton) that Bill C-66, to amend the Excise Tax Act, be read the second time and referred to committee of the whole; and the amendment thereto of Mr. Stanfield (p. 7416).

The Acting Speaker [Mrs. Morin]: The hon. member for Victoria-Haliburton (Mr. Scott). Is the hon. member for Ottawa West (Mr. Francis) rising on a point of order?

Mr. Francis: No, Madam Speaker. You have recognized another hon. member. I hope I will be recognized next.

The Acting Speaker [Mrs. Morin]: I will recognize the hon. member for Ottawa West after the hon. member for Victoria-Haliburton.

Mr. W.C. Scott [Victoria-Haliburton]: Madam Speaker, I was very interested in listening to the Minister of National Revenue (Mr. Basford) expound this afternoon on what will turn out to be nothing but a witch hunt. I was very disappointed that after the minister made his speech, he left the chamber. I was also interested in the simplicity of the forms he intends to circulate. I have seen a lot of government forms and not many of them have been simple.

• (1700)
I am disappointed in a government which has no faith in the Canadian people. That is exemplified by this government in Bill C-66. I do not dispute the ability of the members of the minister's department, but I think he is giving them a big job. I was also disappointed when the hon. member for Lanark-Renfrew-Carleton (Mr. Dick) asked the minister to table the forms which apply to people eligible for tax refunds and he refused to do so.

This is a government which runs on subsidies and refunds. This is another subsidy they want to hand out, but first they have to take the money from the people. When I was preparing my remarks on this bill it occurred to me that I put a question to the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources (Mr. Macdonald) concerning the price of gasoline at the retail level. I think it would be interesting to refer to my remarks as reported in page 3664 of Hansard of February 28 of this year. My question was as follows:

In view of the wide discrepancies in the price of gasoline which now varies as much as 14 cents per gallon between service stations for regular gas, will the minister look into this ridiculous situation?

The minister replied: The government has never attempted to monitor gasoline prices at the retail level. It seems to me that because of the current surplus of products there is extensive competition, at least in some communities, at the retail level. On the whole, I would think that kind of competition would favour the consumer rather than work against him.

Mr. Speaker, I did not ask the minister for a sermon on the merits of competition in the gasoline market. I asked him to look into the situation to see how the industry could sell a product of the same grade at prices which varied as much as 14 cents a gallon, bearing in mind the low margin of profit received by service stations on a gallon of gas. Instead of looking into the matter, what we got from the government was unwarranted interference in the retail sales of gasoline; what we got from the government was taxation by decree instead of by the traditional method of tabling tax bills in the House. To be sure, we are debating the legislation to increase the excise tax, but we are debating it after the fact.

On the night of the budget speech, the operators of gas stations were thrown into a state of chaos. They were not sure whether the Minister of Finance (Mr. Turner) could raise the price of gasoline simply by making a statement in the House. They were not sure whether they should raise the price right at that moment. Most service station operators are early risers; they have to open their stations in order to serve other people who need to get an early start. I suppose the average opening time would be about 7 a.m.

The minister said on the night of June 23 that gasoline prices would rise as of that moment by ten cents a gallon. Surely the minister knows there are mechanical and technical problems involved in the changing of the pricing mechanism on gasoline pumps. It is obvious the minister did not take any of these things into account when he made his announcement. It would appear he placed the burden of responsibility for making the change on the individual operators.

The minister has not explained why the government imposed the tax by decree instead of by tabling legislation and allowing retailers and wholesalers at least a few days in which to prepare themselves for the change. An implementation date of July 1, for instance, would have allowed operators time to dispose of old inventories and then to impose the increase only on gasoline purchased at the new price.

Apart from the way in which it was done, my chief concern over the price increase is that it will impose a further hardship on tourist operators. My riding of Victoria-Haliburton depends to a very large degree on tourism to average out the economic level, and the increase in gasoline prices will not only affect the operating costs of tourist businesses but will also constrict the travel plans of vacationers at a time when we are all trying to encourage Canadians to spend their vacations in their own country; at a time when we are spending millions of dollars on such things as "See Canada First" programs.

Last year, the government imposed a 10 per cent increase in federal taxation on boats and motors, thus posing a threat to the tourist industry and to the power boat and motor industries in this country. After considerable debate, the tax increase on boats was rescinded but the increase in the tax on small motors remained. Now there is a new tax increase on gasoline, with the threat of a further increase next month.

I have to wonder at times whether the government is deliberately trying to scuttle the tourist industry in areas such as I represent. I would be interested to know the amount of real income the government will realize from this tax increase compared with the loss of revenue the tourist operators will suffer. It is no wonder that many people who have spent their working lives in the tourist business are asking whether it is worth the trouble. To a large degree, a tourist operation is a gamble. Just one bad season caused, for instance, by a wet summer, could very well finish off an operation which lacked a strong financial reserve.

There are a number of questions which must be answered with reference to this tax on gasoline. In the first place, it would be interesting to know just how much revenue the government will receive from this tax. According to the latest figures of which I am aware, the amount is likely to be roughly $525 million a year. It should be remembered that merely to collect this amount of extra revenue will cost a good deal of money.

I should also like to mention that the preliminary estimate of the number of those who will be entitled to the gasoline tax refund is between 750,000 and one million. The number of eligible refund claimants owing to multiple claims by one claimant during the year. Refunds are expected to total $170 million in this fiscal year, implying a ratio of $1 refunded to every $3 collected.

How is the government going to police this? The Minister of National Revenue made reference to this and said that no bills would be required. We expect Canadians to be honest people, but I think we will have a real witch hunt on our hands here. The Unemployment Insurance Commission is a prime example of what I mean. They have a witch hunt on now, and I am convinced that they are much better equipped to handle it than the Department of National Revenue will be when it comes to collecting this new tax. I think we will have to require bills. I am quite sure in my own mind that bills will be demanded if there is a dispute as to the amount of rebate an individual is claiming. I know this will happen, yet the minister says no bills will be required. I cannot accept that, Madam Speaker.

New section 47 of the act provides for the refund of the gasoline tax to certain types of users of gasoline, such as farmers, commercial fishermen, hunters and federal and provincial agencies. The bill requires those who qualify for the refund to set up accounting procedures, to keep records of gasoline used and the amount of gasoline refund being applied for. This imposes an additional burden upon the users of gasoline. I venture to say the government expects that a great many people will probably not qualify for a large return, and rather than go to the trouble of filling in an application form, simple will be, they will forget about it and file no application. The government is depending on this additional revenue from people who do not trouble to claim a refund. Besides the time and trouble involved, it would also add to the expense of operating a farm or other small business enterprise. The federal bureaucracy is growing so many tentacles that at its present rate of growth it is only a question of time before those tentacles strangle smaller businesses, and only those businesses and industries that are strong enough to absorb this economic punch that is being thrown by the federal government will survive.

As mentioned by previous speakers, I think the government has forgotten the army of commuters travelling to work today. This is a problem, again, due to the lack of adequate housing in areas close to industry. Many of the major arteries into our cities carry large numbers of cars driven by workers commuting back and forth. These people will be penalized, something I do not think the government has taken into consideration. If we had proper accommodation provided for these people in our urban centres, this would relieve our highways of much congestion. But again the government has forgotten about this. Many hundreds of people in the rural riding I represent commute 90 or more miles back and forth to work per day each way.

Returning to my opening statement, the government could have used this opportunity to equalize gasoline prices from one province to another. If the government is so interested in this vital natural resource, why has it not done something to equalize gasoline prices? There must be something wrong. The government has had plenty of time to do this. One gas station in a given area sells gasoline for 14 cents a gallon less than another sells the same grade: does that not warrant an inquiry? As far as I am concerned, Madam Speaker, it does.

The spread between prices in various regions remained the same, so again I say this tax is simply a means for the government to raise additional revenue. Equalization simply was not in the finance minister's planning when he tabled this legislation, so we will continue to have a wide range of prices for the same product from gas station to gas station, from province to province and from region to region. It is almost as though the government is saying that if we want to live in certain parts of Canada we must be prepared to pay a penalty.

In his budget speech the finance minister wandered all over the lot, and when he did manage to touch base now and again it was to tell us some more bad news. The minister could have used this opportunity to tell the country that the government was prepared to take whatever steps were necessary to see that low interest loans would be made easier for small businesses to obtain. Some of my colleagues have already asked whether the government plans to use the revenue from this tax increase to provide low interest loans to small businesses, such as gasoline service stations. The answer has been given that the government has no intention of using the additional revenue for such purpose. The revenue is going into general revenue to satisfy the government's appetite for more money to spend.

I have received letters and calls from many people in my riding telling me that they cannot get loans to improve their businesses, which the government has been offering at 8 per cent interest. The simple reason is that the banks are not interested in lending money at 8 per cent or 9 per cent when they can get 13 per cent on the same money. There is no way the banks can be forced to lend money to small business operators of the kind I have mentioned, or to anybody else, at low interest rates, so these people end up --

The Acting Speaker [Mrs. Morin]: Order, please. Again I repeat the remarks I made a while ago. We are dealing with an amendment to Bill C-66, which is to amend the Excise Tax Act.

Mr. Scott: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. My reference was to the gasoline industry and to the problems encountered by small business operators. I am also getting complaints from people who tell me that old customers are now pulling up to the pumps at their service station and asking for $2 worth of gasoline, whereas previously they bought a tankful. I know this to be the fact because I have witnessed it myself as well as having had complaints about it. These people say they can buy gas cheaper at stations down the road. As a result, many small, established businesses and filling stations are going to be ruined.

Every community in Canada, large or small, has its service stations, and in many of these smaller communities the service station is the backbone of the town or village economy. In addition to selling gasoline and oil, the service stations keep automobiles, commercial vehicles and farm vehicles in working order, keeping this business in the local area and contributing to the economic growth of the community. In areas such as my own riding of Victoria-Haliburton they also serve the tourists who come to visit the area.

It has been suggested that the real reason for the increase in the surtax on gasoline is that the government wants to try to conserve petroleum products and that increasing the price is one way to do this. If that is so, then the government is certainly mixed up. The Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources told me in this House in February that there was a surplus of petroleum products. Everyone knows that you do not get people to stop drinking, smoking or driving simply by increasing the price of cigarettes, alcohol or gasoline. The people who can afford it will still buy gasoline, just as they continue to buy alcohol and cigarettes. It is the people who can least afford the price increase on gasoline who will be hurt, just as they are the ones who are hurt most by any other tax increases.

• (1720)

What will happen to the people who will be forced to spend more money on gasoline? They will ask for more money from their employers. This will add to the inflation. This tax will represent another means by which this government contributes to inflation. This is the government that told us it intended to wrestle inflation to the ground.

I must say that no explanation on the part of the government will satisfy me that there is a justification for this latest increase in the price of gasoline. When one considers that the government estimates it will spend $30 billion in running the country in the coming fiscal year, it certainly seems odd, to say the least, that it requires the paltry $300 million to $525 million that will be raised by means of this tax. I say "paltry" because it seems this government considers any sum under $1 billion to be paltry.

There is a story that has gone the rounds for years concerning the mountain climber who was asked why he climbed the mountain. He replied that he climbed it because it was there. I am wondering whether the Minister of Finance decided to place a tax on gasoline on June 23 simply because it was there. When the minister has finished clearing up the mess in respect of collecting refunds in relation to this gasoline tax, I think he will wish he had looked elsewhere for additional revenue. Now we have been told by the Minister of National Revenue that the government will tax the refund in respect of commercial users of gasoline. Here we have another example of the government contributing to the costs of individuals.

Now I should like to deal with the record of the government in handling the oil situation. In the winter of 1973-74 the government created what I believe was an artificial crisis in respect of fuel oil. We were told by the minister that there was a huge shortage of fuel oil. There was no shortage, but the price of home heating oil was increased. We see from Hansard for April 2, 1974, that the government paid 99½ cents per gallon for Rumanian oil while the world market price for oil was only 89 cents. Later, in Hansard for April 11, 1974, we note that the quality of the oil was so poor that the government received offers for it of 15

Group to study energy conservation in truck operation

TORONTO -- The Ministry of Transportation and Communications and the Ministry of Energy jointly announced an advisory council has been formed to study and research techniques to decrease fuel consumption in trucking operations in Ontario.

The council was set up in response to a resolution from the Ontario Trucking Association (OTA) and consists of representatives from both Ministries, the OTA, the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association and the Ontario Road Builders' Association, as well as from the public driving sector, the Ontario Motor League and Consumers' Association of Canada.

Since truck operations in Ontario account for fully one-third of the total fuel consumed for roadway transportation, there is considerable potential for major savings.

At its initial meeting, members established guidelines for future studies and decided to set up a series of workshops in the near future. It was resolved that fuel-saving methods must not compromise safety standards or damage the environment.

Old Age Security pensions up in July

Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde has announced increases in Old Age Security Pension and Guaranteed Income Supplement payments effective in July.

The increases, which represent the seventh quarterly escalation based on the cost of living, bring the new monthly total at the single rate for persons receiving both OAS and GIS to $213.97.

Married couples who are both pensioners will receive a combined basic pension and maximum supplement of $408.20 monthly.

Here's a further breakdown of increases provided by the department:

The basic Old Age Security Pension will rise in July to $125.76 from the present $123.42. Maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for a single person, or a married person whose spouse is not a pensioner, will go up to $88.21 from its current $86.57. The maximum supplement for a married couple, both pensioners, will increase to $78.34 each from the present $76.88. Added to the basic pension, this will give each married pensioner $204.10 monthly.

cents a gallon.

The Acting Speaker (Mrs. Morin): Order, please. I fail to see the relevance of the hon. member's comments to the amendment or the bill under discussion. Perhaps the hon. member would limit his remarks to the bill.

Mr. Scott: With all respect, Madam Speaker, may I say we are still dealing with the oil situation. However, I shall move on. The gas tax and increases in the cost of home heating oil will generate revenue of about $2 billion. Once again, however, this amount will not go to the government for the purpose of expanding supply. This $2 billion in national revenue will certainly make up for the elimination of the 5 per cent tax on insulation building materials. I stress "insulation building materials". Back in 1974, as a party we advocated the dropping of the 11 per cent tax on building materials. The government gradually climbed down the ladder; it reduced the tax from 11 per cent to 5 per cent. Now the 5 per cent has been eliminated in respect of insulation materials. I do not know why the government did not go all the way and drop the 5 per cent tax on all building materials.

An hon. Member: That would be too sensible.

Mr. Scott: That is right, it would be too sensible. This blatant tax grab will have severe repercussions in the province of Ontario. It is estimated that the increase in the cost of fuel alone in Ontario will eliminate 15,000 jobs. It will certainly hit very hard the auto industry in Ontario. There is no emergency at present that would justify the undermining of the livelihood of as many citizens as will be the case in respect of this bill.

In closing may I say that because of the representations made by many members of this House, chiefly opposition members and a few members on the government side, in respect of this unwarranted tax and the effect it will have on the Canadian economy, I hope the minister will review the situation and withdraw this bill.

BARNYARD SOCIALISM

Once upon a time there was a Little Red Hen who scratched about and uncovered some grains of wheat. She called her barnyard neighbours and said, "If we work together and plant this wheat, we will have some fine bread to eat. Who will help me plant the wheat?"

"Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Duck. "Not I," said the Goose. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen and she did.

After the wheat started growing, the ground turned dry and there was no rain in sight. "Who will help me water the wheat?" said the Little Red Hen.

"Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Pig. "Equal rights," said the Goose. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen and she did.

The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain. "Who will help me reap the wheat?" asked the Little Red Hen.

"Not I," said the Cow. "Not I," said the Duck. "Out of my classification," said the Pig. "Not I," said the Goose. "Then I will," said the Little Red Hen and she did.

When it came time to grind the flour, "Not I," said the Cow. "I'd lose my unemployment insurance," said the Duck.

When it came time to bake the bread, "That's overtime for me," said the Cow. "I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the Duck. "I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the Pig. "If I'm the only one helping, that's discrimination," said the Goose.

"Then I will," said the Little Red Hen and she did. She baked five loaves of fine bread and held them up for her neighbours to see.

"I want some," said the Cow. "I want some," said the Duck. "I want some," said the Pig. "I demand my share," said the Goose.

"No," said the Little Red Hen. "I can rest for a while and eat five loaves myself."

"Excess profits," cried the Cow. "Capitalist leech!" screamed the Duck. "Company fink," grunted the Pig. "Equal rights," screamed the Goose. And they hurriedly painted picket signs and marched around the Little Red Hen singing, "We shall overcome." And they did.

For when the Farmer came to investigate the commotion, he said, "You must not be greedy, Little Red Hen. Look at the oppressed Cow. Look at the disadvantaged Duck. Look at the underprivileged Pig. Look at the less fortunate Goose. You are guilty of making second-class citizens of them."

"But-but-but-I earned the bread," protested the Little Red Hen.

"Exactly," the wise Farmer said. "That is the wonderful free enterprise system; anybody in the barnyard can earn as much as he wants. You should be happy to have all this freedom. In other barnyards, you would have to give all five loaves to the Farmer. Here you give four loaves to your suffering neighbours."

And they lived happily ever after. Including the Little Red Hen, who smiled and clucked, "I am grateful, I am grateful."

But her neighbours wondered why she never baked any more bread.

Golfing hazards found in Bahama Islands actually welcomed by most golf enthusiasts

THE BAHAMAS — Water hazards are one of those little devices invented to make your average golfer lose his temper — not to mention golf balls. However, in the semi-tropical Bahamas, such obstacles are sometimes actually welcomed. Many of the golf courses here are surrounded by a natural water hazard — the ocean. And while this makes golf in the Bahamas challenging, the courses are cooled by sea breezes from the water. In addition, after a brisk 18-holes, golfers can even go for a refreshing swim after the game. Scenic and even spectacular palm-fringed layouts in the Bahamas can be found in Nassau, Freeport and the Out Islands of Abaco, Eleuthera and the Berry Islands. Of course, golf is available all year round due to warm, sunny weather — good news for Canadians wondering how to get in a few games during both summer and winter vacations.

Savings in Canada may be too high

Personal savings by Canadians are outstripping projections for Canada and exceeding the rate of savings in the United States. And that may not be all good for the individual or for the Canadian economy.

According to the 1974 edition of the Canadian Consumer Credit Factbook, just published by the Canadian Consumer Loan Association and the Federated Council of Sales Finance Companies, the personal savings rate in Canada overtook the rate in the United States during 1972 and 1973. Measured against personal disposable income, the savings rate in Canada was 7.7 and 7.4 per cent for the two years, compared to 6.3 and 6.2 per cent in the United States.

More important is the fact that the savings rate of Canadians during 1974 accelerated sharply to 7.9 per cent of personal disposable income to reach a level of $7 billion — an increase of $1.3 billion in one year. The projections of the Economic Council of Canada said that it would take until 1980 for personal savings to reach the $8.7 billion mark. If the amount of the annual increases in savings continues, that forecast will be passed by next year.

Savings are treated in Canada's official statistics — and in other countries — as the amount of income left over after spending, says the Factbook. That is how most families treat savings, too — as leftovers. The high savings rate during 1974 could mean that Canadian incomes rose so fast during the year as to surprise earners with a lot of unplanned leftover income. Or it could mean that people are spending less and saving more by design.

Either way, the high level of savings in the country means that an accumulation of purchasing power is in the hands of the public which they could use to stimulate the lagging economy. It is a simple fact that workers building everything from A to Z will not be employed very long if customers don't buy.

Besides the general good that flows from a fully-used economy — and that always appears to be somebody else's problem — people who hold savings are making an implicit forecast about the future value of dollars. Why hold a buck if you know it is going to be worth less next year?

If the forecasts of a renewed bout of inflation come true, savers are going to be sorry they didn't buy their homes, and the durable goods that go with them, when prices were relatively low.

Hiking through Alberta parks or just making new friends along eastern shores, the best remembered family vacations are those recorded on film.

Vacation photos... a snap to take

Many vacationers find that recalling holiday adventures is almost as much fun as the vacation itself. The best way to relive family holidays, and to share them with friends, is through pictures.

Producing interesting vacation photos is as easy as incorporating a few tips into your present camera-handling techniques.

En route, keep your camera in the front seat of your car so you won't miss recording seldom-seen Canadian landscapes.

If you don't want to stop for photos, shoot through the front windshield of your travelling vehicle. Focus on points of interest at infinity range from your camera to reduce blurring caused by movement. Without leaning against the dashboard, hand-hold your camera for best results.

The most pleasing photos, landscape or people pictures, are the ones in which the horizon is level. Keep this in mind before clicking the shutter.

Distractions such as telephone poles and hydro lines tend to creep into snapshots when the picture-taker is not observant. Again, look at your subject area before shooting. If necessary, move to a better vantage point.

Combine uncluttered settings and busy people for effective vacation shots. Let the enjoyment of the holidays prevail by photographing expressions and emotions at close range.

For other camera-handling ideas you might want to take along on your holidays, send today for pamphlet AE-5, "Pocket Guide to Good Pictures." A free copy is available from the Editorial Service Bureau, Kodak Canada Ltd., 3500 Eglinton Ave. W., Toronto, Ont. M6M 1V3.

Summer Theatre

A capacity house on Saturday night ended the first half of the Kawartha Summer Theatre season, at the Academy Theatre in Lindsay.

Two plays, "Born Yesterday" and the "Importance of Being Earnest", won high critical praise. Steve Veale, writing in The Peterborough Examiner headlined his story, "Kawartha presents another gem" and called the performances of John Hamelin and Robert Haley "a joy to behold". He had high praise also for Margaret Barton of Calgary as Lady Bracknell "she commands audience laughter with every syllable, and winds up his review saying .. "Oscar Wilde would likely feel complimented".

Herbert Whittaker, in the Toronto Globe and Mail praised the production of "Born Yesterday" equally strongly. He commented on Director Ron Ulrich's decision to present the play in the light of the Watergate revelations, and says that Margaret Bard who played Billie Dawn ... "needs no comic voice because she is busy converting the famous laugh lines into hard hitting sense" ... "Richard Farrell ... a strong study of that failed idealist ... "... the tall firm looking Robert Haley ... the living embodiment of the Washington Posts' investigative reportage."

Attendance for the Kawartha Summer Theatre is running approximately eight percent ahead of last year, with advance sales at an all time high.

This week the first of two plays by Canadian writers is on stage, "The Mumberley Inheritance" by Warren Graves of Edmonton, with local actor Ed. Waterhouse joining the company to play the villain.

The following week, Joan Panton, one of the most popular actresses in the Kawartha company will come from British Columbia to co-star with Jack Northmore in Two Plus Two Makes Sex.

The season will end with the second Canadian play,

"Money for Jam" by James Harris, the hilarious story of what happens to a man who wins the Olympic Lottery .. and has an envious best friend and an ambitious wife. And finally a week of the charming musical based on the works of the famous English composer ... "Oh Coward".

The Kawartha Summer Theatre plays at the Academy Theatre in Lindsay, Ontario, Tuesday to Saturday. Phone (705) 324-9111.

Monmouth Library holds Open House

Teeming rain failed to discourage visitors to the Monmouth Library Open House on July 27th. Those who attended were rewarded by being present at a history making event. This was the day when four of Haliburton's writers joined the public in a friendly exchange of conversation.

The authors were well known through their books and it was a splendid opportunity to meet them face to face.

Ron Curry introduced his three contemporaries giving details of their literary achievements and noting the important part each had played in their recording of historical events of Haliburton County.

Mr. Harley Cummings then told of his discovery many years ago that very little was known about the history of this County. This led to his search for any existing records and one of his greatest finds was in Ottawa where he came upon company papers of the great Boyd Lumbering Co. Their meticulous filing methods provided important information for Mr. Cumming's book "Early Days in Haliburton".

Nila Reynolds, a charming, lovely lady, is also a busy housewife and mother. Her book "In Quest of Yesterday" has been in demand for years and with the addition of the Centennial section is selling better than ever. Her search for items of historical interest in all parts of the County is never ending. She mentioned that the Haliburton County Library is providing valuable service to the Community by collecting and filing all available scraps of information that may be used for reference in the future.

Theodore Peacock of Goderham added moments of magic when he was persuaded to recite some of his well-loved poems from his book "Tales of the Trails". Mr. Peacock, who is a lover of nature and writes knowingly of such things, received fine applause from his enthusiastic listeners.

Mr. Ron Curry failed to make mention of his own tribute to the County in his newly published volume of "Haliburton Village 1864-1964 & Haliburton County 1874-1974". Copies of this fine book are available in all parts of the County and with their attractive yellow jacket make great reading for your own library or as a gift for a friend.

Before leaving the writers were kept busy answering questions and autographing their books. Truly a memorable afternoon.

An added interest to the day was the display of arts and crafts. Greatly admired was some beautiful pottery, product of members of the Harcourt Pottery classes, wall hangings, samples of weaving, needlework. Hand-made quilts caught the eye also charming dolls and stuffed animals. Many stopped to enjoy samples of macrame and paintings. The children's section held a variety of articles made by the Girl Guides and also to be seen was a coin selection, a display of rocks and an illustrated story pictured by students of Grades Two and three of Wilberforce Public School.

Joe and Donna Burroughs

provided continuous entertainment with slides depicting the unbeatable scenery that is to be found in Haliburton County.

The Library Committee members were on hand to welcome guests and a visitor's book recorded the signatures of those who attended.

Proudly on display was the trophy won for the best float in Saturday's Parade.

Wilberforce news

We extend our greatest thanks to the Sport and Committees, Keith Tullman, Reeve Gary Agnew and their staff; Geo. Grant charge of the floats and Parade for our big weekend in our town. Also all the Bands from different Legions for taking a grand part in making it a great success. Those of the Ladies Auxiliary 624, who worked so hard both days and took a great part in being hostess to our visitors and serving in our Pancake Breakfast, and serving supper.

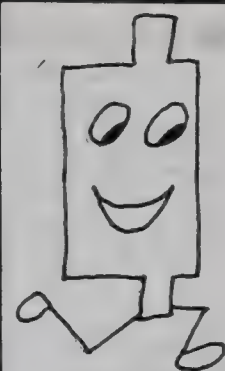

Everyone was overjoyed of New Lloyd Weston Building and it being a grand credit to our small town.

We have uninvited guests on highway 121, south of Wilberforce. There are four bears and two cubs which have been seen there about dusk. Being at the dump for ratepayers we have seen them several times. If anyone should go around there, don't get between Mama bears, or her little ones. There are about ten in all.

Linda Kelso of Toronto and boys Rickey and Glen visiting their grandfather, Harold Parnell of Wilberforce.

During the week ending July 31, 1975 nearly 11,000 acre - feet of water was lost from the system due to evaporation and minimum required flows. Remaining storage on that date stood at about 67% of maximum.

Flows being released from the Northern Reservoirs are still being held to minimum as are flows past Peterborough to make the best use of the surplus of water remaining in the Kawarthas from the rains of two weeks ago.

Hot weather currently affecting this area will probably increase the evaporation rate causing lake levels to decline more rapidly than in the past week or so.

Second Annual Canadian Blues and Jazz Festival

The happiness boys of mainstream jazz will be appearing at the Canadian Blues and Jazz Festival at the Community Centre in Minden on August 9th. They are the trio made up of tenor saxophonist Illinois Jacquet, organist Milt Buckner and drummer Jo Jones.

All three musicians have an internationally renowned recognition: Illinois with Lionel Hampton and Count Basie; Milt with McKinney's Cotton Pickers, Lionel Hampton and for the past few years a solid member of the Illinois Jacquet trio. Jo Jones' recording credits are among the most extensive and impressive in jazz. Jo became famous as the drummer in Count Basie's "All American Rhythm Section", one of the most swinging rhythm sections of all time!

Each of the trio have appeared with Jazz at the Philharmonic, the Newport Jazz Festival, the Monterey jazz Festival and many outstanding engagements in Europe, Canada and the United States.

Guitarist Tiny Grimes is yet another great musician who has not been given credit and rewards due him. Tiny was an original member of the Art Tatum Trio and later played with Charlie Parker. Fortunately he has become more visible again in recent years, making appearances at the Kennedy Center Jazz Festival, the 1974 Newport Jazz Festival and the 1974 European Jazz Festival at Nice, Paris, Spain, Belgium and Switzerland.

Miss Jodie Drake is the very special guest of the evening. Jodie is an entertainer of star magnitude. Her style is uniquely her own and her repertoire ranges from haunting ballads to "gut" blues. It is a style which has brought stunned audiences leaping to their feet in thunderous applause from New Orleans to Toronto.

All of the Festival performers are incredible giants of jazz and blues. The Rotary Club of Minden is proud to be sponsoring this tremendous Blues and Jazz Festival. Proceeds from the Festival are in aid of the Community Service Projects of the Minden Rotary Club.

Tickets will be available at the Community Centre on August 9, 1975.

Gems of Truth

SIMPLE MATHEMATICS
"And he brought him to Jesus" John 1:42
From the dawn of Christianity to our present day, there has never been given a more satisfactory method of propagating the Gospel of the Lord Jesus, than was used by Andrew. Here is a man who kept alive the cycle of testimony, with the result that another soul found the Saviour. This is the way the Christian evangel was ordained to work, and it demonstrates a most satisfactory method of spreading the "Good News of Salvation". Our age could well go back to the first century and learn this God given technique all over again. The results would be amazing.

The scene which involved Andrew was set up by John, the messenger God had laid hold of to introduce the Saviour to lost sinners. John had the message and he boldly proclaimed it. The "Lamb of God" had come to take away the sin of the world and there was no doubt in the mind of John that this was so. He did not say "I think this might be Him," nor did he suggest as an acceptable theory that He might be, "but unhesitatingly proclaimed that "this was He." His positive message was the beginning of a chain-like reaction and Andrew, then Simon come in line of discipleship.

These men were Jews, who were steeped in religious offerings for sin. To them the "Lamb" that John proclaimed had but one meaning, cleansing from the stain of sin and freedom from the guilt of wrong doings. They were used to supplying their own lamb, so when they heard that the Lord God had provided the "Lamb" their curiosity was deeply aroused and they eagerly followed Jesus to talk with Him and learn from Him.

Apparently the full day was spent with the "One" that had aroused their interest and they became fully convinced that He was the longed-for Messiah the Saviour for whom Israel was looking. Was not this conclusion inevitable? Will not any normal open-minded person who really wants to know truth and is willing to study no other book but the One who alone is truth, also be able to embrace the teaching and Person of Christ?

As Andrew made his decision to follow Jesus, he came to his brother Simon and presented his findings to him. This act of Andrew started that chain reaction which is God's method of spreading the Gospel. It is a very simple method but extremely effective. The saved one brings another to Jesus, then that one in turn gets a third. The major problem with this chain method is that the process is interrupted by inactive disciples and the cycle fails to function.

Furthermore, the cycle fails to give results because Andrew's method is not followed. When he contacted Simon, what did he do with him? Scripture says 'he brought him to Jesus'. He did not pressure him to join the Church, nor did he give him a warm welcome to join the membership. He took the true method of multiplication and brought Simon direct to Jesus. This is God's plan, there is no other One who is able to give true meaning to life and harness it for useful service.
Andrew brought Simon to Jesus because there was no other place to take him. The central thing about this whole scene is that these men "wanted Salvation" from sin. Andrew's word to Simon "we have found the Christ" stirred his hungry soul into response. That was enough for a man who knew his own need. He let all other things come into second priority and earnestly followed the "Teacher" of "Life" with meaning. John 14:6.

This cycle method does not restrict God or limit Him in His ways of dealing with the lost creation, it merely is a way that is effective and if followed would bring amazing new life to sinner and saint alike. It is God's proven way to build His Church. Why not practice it?

Seat belts are your best protection

TORONTO -- The correct use of seat belts is the best way to avoid serious injury or death after a vehicle collides with another obstacle and plunges into water, the Ministry of Transportation and Communications has announced.
A study conducted in the Netherlands by the Institute for Road Safety Research indicated that in more than half of all traffic accidents involving water, vehicles involved had collided with another obstacle before going into the water.

Since occupants must be able to react quickly, escape depends on remaining conscious and free from serious injury. And properly fastened seat belts prevent further injury during the severe jolt that occurs even at low speeds when a vehicle collides with water.

The doors of a submerged vehicle, in nearly all cases tested, were impossible to open because of outside water pressure. Thus windows offer the best escape route, the study concluded.
Ontario statistics in 1974 show that of 28 people drowned following a collision, none wore seat belts.

Recreational lakes found to have good water quality

Four lakes in the Ministry of the Environment's Central Region were found to have good water quality, according to surveys done during the summer of 1973, the Ministry announced today.

Reports on the lakes indicate that Head Lake in Victoria County, Bass Lake in Simcoe County, Oak Lake in Methuen Township and Peninsula Lake in the District of Muskoka are all in good condition with a low algae count even though some have relatively poor water clarity.

The surveys were done to determine the quality of the water with respect to distributions and densities of bacteria, suspended algae and aquatic plants.

One of the most important parameters used to obtain a definition of water quality is an assessment clarity. A Secchi disc is used to measure the transparency of water. It is a metal disc divided into alternating black and white sections which is lowered into the lake and a reading recorded at the point of its disappearance. Two readings are usually taken and the average depth recorded.

Chlorophyll a is a photosynthetic green pigment in algae and its concentration can be used as a rough indication of the extent of biological activity in a lake at the time of sampling because it is regulated by all of the combined physical, chemical and biological factors which affect algae production.

All four lakes had a good chlorophyll a count and except for Bass Lake all had good water clarity. They also had bacterial counts that were well within Environment Ontario's microbial criteria for total body contact.

The average chlorophyll a count for Oak Lake was 1.4 micrograms per litre, for Head Lake 3.0, for Bass Lake 2.6 and Peninsula Lake 1.9. Any count between 0 and 3 micrograms per litre is considered acceptable.

Clear algae-free lakes tend to have a Secchi disc reading of greater than 3 meters or 9 feet. In this respect, the clarity of Head Lake and Bass Lake with readings of 2.9 and 2.2 meters respectively was not good. However, this seems to represent turbidity rather than an algae-rich lake. Oak Lake was considerably clearer with a reading of 4.7 meters as was Peninsula Lake with a reading of 4.5 meters.

Cottagers can help maintain the clear water and low algae density of their lakes by ensuring that excess nutrients from sink and laundry wastes, septic tank-tile bed seepage and garden fertilizers do not gain access to the lakes.

Hall's Lake news

Eight friends from Cambridge England, have been visiting with the McGuires and Andersons for the past two weeks.

Mr and Mrs A.R. Gilchrist of Twelve Mile Lake had a big surprise when a beautiful mobile home drove up last Saturday from Utah. Mr and Mrs George MacGilvray of Utah, U.S.A., Mr and Mrs Harry Swarbrick and daughter Heather of Toronto with friend Pauline Briarley of Lancashire, England, spent the long week-end with the Gilchrists, and also had a short visit with Miss E. Gilchrist of Hall's Lake.

Mrs Sally Rose of Windsor spent a few days this past week with her Mother, Mrs Jean Wheeler at her home on Kushog Lake.

Mr and Mrs Al Rawlins entertained friends on Sunday evening in honour of their 35th Wedding Anniversary. The gathering included folks from British Columbia, Montreal, London and Hall's Lake.

It seems unwise to mention the weather, for when we write the news for Monday noon deadline it is often cool, but by the time the paper is out there is another drastic change in the temperature and the reading doesn't make much sense. Anyway, we've been sweltering in the heat this past week!

Now I find out there will be no Progress printed this week, so all of this will be a little stale when it finally reaches the Public.

Club 35 is enjoying good numbers to their Euchres on Monday evenings and their Bingo Games each Wednesday -- both start at 8 PM and everyone is welcome.

Mrs Elaine Barjarow is helping out with the Boutique at the Hyland Crest each Wednesday and we are indeed grateful to her for taking this on during the busy summer months. The Residents look forward to their little store being open where they can shop. Good paper-books are also sold to staff and residents.

Everyone is curious to learn why Haliburton has not been mentioned in the Haliburton Lure Book. It all seems to fit in with the declining services, poor deliveries, the don't-care attitude of salesmen, shutdown of Summer postal stations, stale bread, no tonic-water on the truck, no flour for the baker of bread, no delivery of donut flour, and so on and on. It seems to be a constant battle to get on with the job when commodities we used to get so readily are shut off.

New Ontario publications for convention planners

Two new publications have been produced by the Ministry of Industry and Tourism as useful tools specifically geared to assist convention planners in locating suitable Ontario sites for their meetings.

The booklets form part of the ministry's current promotional campaign to attract more meetings and conventions for Ontario.

Industry and Tourism Minister Claude Bennett said that the project is directed toward association and corporate meeting planners and aims at increasing the number of association conventions, company sales meetings and management seminars to and within Ontario.

This is to capitalize on the fact that the province is rapidly becoming one of North America's prime destinations for such functions, largely due to its expanding accommodation industry.

One publication is the Convention Facilities Guide, Ontario/Canada, which lists over 120 hotels, motor inns, universities and convention hall facilities throughout the province which cater to the convention market.

The other is the Ontario Resorts Meeting Guide, co-produced with the Association of Tourist Resorts of Ontario, containing a listing of about 50 of the province's vacation establishments which accommodate groups.

For assistance in site selection and copies of these publications, write: Ministry of Industry and Tourism, Convention Services, 900 Bay Street, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2E5, or phone: (416) 965-9991.

New edition of "Truckers Bible" off the press

Thousands of changes were required to update the 406-page Official Ontario "SHIP-BY-TRUCK" Directory, 1975 edition, just off the press.

Published by Ontario Trucking Association, the Directory is looked upon by users of truck services and the industry itself as the "trucking bible". 6,042 communities throughout North America served by 1,752 carriers, are listed.

The carriers are licensed by the Ontario Government to provide "For-hire" intercity services in accordance with the specific authority published in the Directory. The listings detail company officials, location of terminals and equipment operated.

Included in easy reference sections are general freight carriers, furniture movers, tank truck carriers, machinery haulers, automobile, boat, house and mobile home transporters, as well as other public carriers whose services are available to the general public.

Legislation regulating trucking in Ontario, location of interior sufferance warehouses, commodity weights and general shipping terms, are highlighted.

Copies cost $7.50 each postpaid. Order from: "Ship-By-Truck" Department, Ontario Trucking Association, 555 Dixon Road, Rexdale, Ontario, M9W 1H8. (U.S. orders - $8.00).

In Memoriam

POGUE - In loving memory of a loving husband, father and grandfather, Albert Pogue, who passed away on August 3, 1973.

A golden heart stopped beating,
Two working hands at rest,
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best;
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought his death was near,
Only those who have lost
Can tell the pain of parting without farewell.
- Ever remembered by Wife, Daughter and Family.

BARRY - In loving memory of our Aunt Ede, who passed away on July 30, 1973.

No space of time, no lapse of years,
Can dim the treasured past,
A loving memory keeps it dear,
Affection holds it fast.
- Lovingly remembered by Arthur and Myra Barry.

SHAW - In loving memory of a dear mother, Jessie Shaw, who passed away on August 7, 1974.

Dear Mother how we miss you, no tongue can ever tell,
One sad and lonely year has passed since our great sorrow fell,
It's lonely here without you, Mom, and sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to us since God called you away;
So many times we've wished to hear your voice on the phone
And then we realize that can't be so and we feel so alone,
But we know that you are happy in that home beyond the sky
And we hope some day to meet you in the sweet bye and bye.
- Sadly missed by Pearl, Shirley, Charlie and Bob.

Each evening sun may set,
The hearts of those who love you
Are the ones who never forget.

Tourism in Ontario could hold its own

TORONTO -- Despite a disturbed economy compounded by higher gasoline prices both here and in the U.S., Ontario tourism could still hang in this year on a travel spending par with 1974 which topped $2 billion.

An increase, however, is unlikely for the first time in many years.

This forecast was made by Industry and Tourism Minister Claude Bennett at a time when world travel generally is plagued by inflation and restraints which are more and more restricting extended vacations to the wealthy and the package tourist.

Drawing his findings from a survey conducted in Canada, the U.S. and overseas by the ministry's tourism research branch, the minister suggested that the number of U.S. visitors may also hold this year, a figure which in 1974 nudged 23 million, with nearly one-third remaining for one or more nights.

But Mr. Bennett is watching gasoline prices both here and in the U.S. with a concerned eye for, he said, the recent cost hikes -- even without projected new ones -- will have a negative psychological effect on tourism in Canada and, therefore, Ontario which last year exceeded its goal of 54 per cent of the American market share by two per cent.

"Should this psychological effect heighten," said the minister, "it is possible that many visitors will be less likely to come by car and those who do might be less inclined to travel about the province."

The minister said Ontario may not see any growth in total expenditure in this most challenging of recent years, adding that it would be an achievement even to match last year.

"But how can we tell at this early stage," he asked. "We are receiving mixed reports from across the province and it still is premature to make a proper assessment. I only know that our travel inquiries are up substantially over last year and that our travel literature is rapidly being gobbled up -- one good omen in a tough year."

Because of hard times in the U.S., the minister said a number of Americans may not get to visit their favorite Ontario holiday resorts this year. "There are others who appear to be reducing their normal vacation time by half with the intention of resuming their regular length of stay when the economy improves," said Mr. Bennett. "In the meantime Canadians are taking up much of the slack."

At the same time, he noted, Ontarians are doing more in-province travelling and finding new vacation areas close to home.

The minister said it is expected that the number of overseas visitors to this province will again increase as will their expenditures.

"The skyrocketing cost of travel overseas is causing more and more Europeans to look for more affordable holiday destinations in other parts of the world," the minister added, "and Ontario today is certainly one of them."
